Dear Alex Munro,

As a resident of Earls Barton I would like to make a request that the quantity of houses being proposed in the plan are far too many and obviously exceed any previous quantities that were discussed.

Since the plan was started many houses have been built/being built/awaiting permission within the village. 280 houses are far too many and would appear to be a greedy option by the developers and not an option favoured by many people.

The results quoted by EBNP are very tiny considering there are nearly 6000 residents and approximately 10% have taken any interest in this venture. So I do not feel this is the voice of the village - it is the voice of a very few with the backing of the Parish Council's voice.

There are many other reasons regarding loss of pastures and walking areas, over subscribed schools and doctors and ugly houses being built on the edge of our lovely village which will be overpriced.

However I know when I am beaten and I know this venture will be given the go ahead - but I feel the sheer quantity should be addressed and reduced. I do hope that the Borough Council will give this matter some serious thought.

Yours sincerely

Sue Strus
